

My Thursday

By A. G.

(Special McGill Daily Correspondent.)

New York, October 27.—Western Union claims exemption from the minimum wage provisions of the Wagner and Hours Act on the grounds that their messenger boys make valuable contacts in the course of their work.—News item.

Yes, Jilson?

Telegram for you, P.S. Probably the munitions order from Moronia. Let's see it... Look here, Jilson. There are no thumb-prints on the envelope. Send the Western Union boy in here, will you...

But P.S., aren't you going to open it? Moronia needs...

Never mind Moronia. Send that boy in. Ah, good morning, young man.

Good morning, sir. Gut morgen. Bon jour. Shalom aleichem. Dose vidania.

Well, young man, I see you're a linguist. Isn't that unusual?

No, sir. In all likelihood there are better on the bench by far than I.

You're too modest, I'm sure.

No, sir. Excuse me, sir, is this wallet filled with thousand-dollar bills, which I found outside the door, yours?

Great heavens, boy! Yes. Yes. Thank you. (The phone rings.) Excuse me. Hello? This is he. Oh yes, Ficksett... Well, I don't know that I should make any further commitments just now... Allied Sheepdip? Never heard of it...

Hold on, Ficksett... What's that you say, young man?

Begin pardon, sir, but I've just come from the offices of Bucket and Schop. Mr. Bucket bought 3,000 shares of Allied Sheepdip this morning.

Ficksett?... Buy 2,000 at the market. (He hangs up.) Sit down, young man; I want to have a talk with you. Cigar?

No thank you, sir. Regulations do not permit smoking or sitting down, except when off duty or in civilian clothes.

Quite right, my boy. Now, when I was in... Well, Jilson, what is it now?

It's your wife, P.S. She's on the phone. She wants to know what to have as the central theme for the party tonight. She says your Rasputin beard won't stand another dry cleaning.

Begin pardon, sir, if I may make a suggestion...?

Of course, young man.

Why not Norma Shearer at the Court of France? It's quite historical, sir.

A splendid idea, my boy. Jilson, tell her what we've decided. Yes, young man, as I say, we must have a good long chat. Mmm. (Looks at his watch.) My watch seems to have stopped. Wonder what time it is? Jilson...

It's precisely 11:32 ante meridian, sir. I can tell from the shadow cast by the sun on the building across the street.

Remarkable! Remarkable, young man!... Great Scott! 11:32? I've a very important decision to make in three minutes. Jilson, bring me the merger folder. Thank you...

(under his breath, to himself) Sales, $Bzbbzzzz. Net, $Bzbbzzzz. Depreciation, $Bzbbzzzz. Jilson!

Y-y-yes, s-s-sir?

Confound it, Jilson, how can I make an intelligent analysis without facts? I asked you to get me the figures on Peoria as a potential sales outlet for gum drops. Did you do it?

But sir, how...?

How? How? That's what I'm paying you for.

DR. PAVLASEK WILL ADDRESS I.R.C. MEETING

First Meeting of Club in Union Tonight

CARNEGIE ENDOWMENT

World Problems to Be Discussed — Questions Answered

Dr. Frantisek Pavlasek will be the guest speaker at the first meeting of the International Relations Club, which takes place in the Union Grillroom at 8.15 p.m. tonight. His topic will be "The Moral Forces Behind Czechoslovakia." Dr. Pavlasek, who is a graduate of law of Charles University, Prague, has been for the past four years Consul-General for Czechoslovakia to Canada. Previously he was engaged in the civil service of his country, and then joined the Consular Service. Dr. Pavlasek in his address will deal with recent developments in Europe as well as the future of his country.

Carnegie Endowment.

The I.R.C., which was established last spring at McGill, has many chapters in universities throughout the world. It is sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The main object of the club is to study and discuss world affairs. The Endowment supplies the club with news-bulletins and books.

Every one is welcome to this meeting, especially those students studying economics, law, history, and philosophy. Members of the executive of the University of Montreal chapter will be present at the meeting.

Election of Officers.

Following Dr. Pavlasek's address there will be a question period. The meeting will conclude with the election of officers, and the discussion of future plans for the club.

German Club Holds First Meeting Today

The first of a new series of luncheons sponsored by the German Club will be held today at 1 o'clock in the Samovar, 1424 Peel Street. A dining-room has been reserved and the members of the club will be able to try their German in relative seclusion. The meal price is the same as usual.

The German Table is open to anyone studying or interested in German. All conversation must be carried on in that language, and some of the professors of the department will be on hand to offer expert assistance to any struggling linguists. The idea of the meeting is to stimulate interest in German, and to afford some practical oral exercise for the students.

HALLOWE'EN MASQUE HELD AT MAC FRIDAY

Macdonald College. — Friday night will usher in the first extension hop of the season when Ross Stinson and his orchestra will play Halloween melodies for the masqued Mac dancers. Soft lights and fitting decorations will lend the traditional Halloween atmosphere of witches, black cats and romance to the dance.

The sole requisite for admittance to the hop on Friday will be the wearing of a costume. The Dance Committee is offering two prizes for the best costumes to be seen—one of the prizes will be awarded to the woman with the best costume and one to the man with the smartest get-up.

The dance will, of course, take place in the Women's Gym, and is scheduled to start at 8.00 p.m.

PRICE OF WHEAT UNDER DISCUSSION

Session's First Mock Parliament Held Tonight in Union

At 8.30 tonight in the Union Ball Room under the sponsorship of the political Economy Club, a Mock Parliament will discuss the bill, "Resolved That There Will Be A Minimum Price For The 1939 Wheat Crop."

The bill is being presented by Montague Berger, Prime Minister, and will be followed by more detailed arguments from the various angles of George Rodney, Minister of Agriculture; Thomas Falls, Minister of Transport; Jack Letchevsky, Minister of Finance; and Walter Conrad, Minister of Foreign Affairs. The opposition is led by Neville Wykes.

The Prime Minister remarked that even now in Western Canada there is a feeling towards separation from the East running rampant. Accordingly this subject cannot but be of vital interest to all Canadians alive to the future of their country.

Dr. Hemmeon Speaker.

Dr. J. C. Hemmeon, head of the Department of Economics and Political Science, will preside as speaker of the House. Members of the teaching staff will participate in either side of the debate. All students interested in this discussion are invited to attend, and there will be an open forum before the vote is taken on the bill. There is to be a recess during which refreshments will be served.

TESTS, NOT CHANCE MAY DETERMINE COURSES FOR STUDENTS IN FUTURE

Morganstown. — The student's greatest problem will probably be settled by tests in the near future, Prof. J. E. Winters, psychology, said recently. Baylor University, along with many other colleges, has introduced a new way of determining what courses the students will take. This idea is spreading rapidly to schools all over America and is even now being used to a small extent in the university.

Tests Given

At Baylor, each student takes an intelligence test before making out his schedule—a test that shows his psychological tendencies. Results of these tests are combined with aptitude, scholastic record and study habits to tell faculty members how to advise students.

College officials believe that these tests will be a great aid to the student in determining the field of work he should enter and that they will also help to reduce the number of failures.

Capacity Determined

Psychological examinations, English placement tests and mathematics examinations are now in use at the University to inform the faculty members of the student's capacity. Further tests would be in keeping with the modern trends of education, Mr. Winters said.

McGill Invades Kingston in Hunt For Fourth Consecutive Victory

Excursionists to Leave at 9 a.m. Saturday for Gala Week-end—Return Tickets Now Available at Athletic Office

Coach Doug Kerr had his Redmen brush up on their plays and visiting manners as he prepared to lead the unbeaten McGill team to Kingston to play a return engagement with Queen's. The Tricolour, led by Coach Ted Reeves, dropped into town last week but were given a depressing welcome. It is rumoured that Queen's will be out to give McGill a taste of their own medicine and spoil their nice record of not having lost a game this season.

Doug Kerr

A win would also place the Tricolour back in the running for league honours, a loss will definitely eliminate them. Aware of all this the McGill master mind is not taking any chances and drove the Redmen through a hard scrimmage against the Intermediates. There will be a light workout tonight. Both Art Bradsher and Massey Beveridge are being groomed to take over the place left vacant by Bob Keefer, who will miss the trip to Kingston due to an injured shoulder.

Football enthusiasts will have a final opportunity for an out of town fling when the McGill Athletic Union sponsors an excursion to the McGill-Queen's game on Saturday, October 29. This excursion will only be possible if more than one hundred persons signify intentions of making use of the greatly reduced rate which is only $4.00 for the round trip. This can be done by contacting the Athletic Office as soon as possible.

The train, which will be equipped with a dining car for lunch and a recreation car, will leave Bonaventure Station at 9 a.m. and arrive in Kingston at one o'clock in plenty of time for the game. Stop-over privileges are extended until Sunday night and tickets will be acceptable on all regular trains returning. For those students wishing to return on Saturday night there will be a fast train leaving at 7.07.

An advanced sale of reserved seats at Richardson Stadium is being held now in the Athletic Office. These sell for one dollar each.

Queen's supporters promise that, win or lose, they will provide a gala time for all McGill fans after the game. Grant Hall and the LaSalle Hotel will provide bright lights and gaiety for the visitors.

BIOLOGY CLUB OPENS SEASON

Professor Wynne-Edwards Speaks on Arctic Trip

Meeting Open to Student Body—Programme Will Be Outlined

Professor V. C. Wynne-Edwards, of the Department of Zoology, will open the seasonal activities of the Biological Society at 8 o'clock tonight, with an address concerning new data on the Arctic obtained on a trip there in the summer of 1937. It is to be an open meeting of the Society, open to the student body and to the public. The talk, to be given in Room 250 of the Biological Building, will be accompanied by coloured slides of Arctic life, taken on the trip.

The speaker, as naturalist and as Canadian representative, made the journey North with a group of American students who desired to study Arctic plant and animal life. As passengers aboard the Atlantic schooner, "Gertrude Thebaud," they were successful in obtaining new information of both biological and geographical importance.

At the meeting tonight the president of the Society, Eugene Munroe, will outline the program of lectures to students of biology and other departments, and of a series of students' discussion groups to be held from time to time throughout the coming year.

Dean Douglas Clarke To Initiate Series of Analyses of Concerts

Meeting Open to Students of All Faculties—Carnegie Gift of Library of Recorded Music Will Be Used

Compositions by Sibelius and Brahms will form the focal points of Dean Douglas Clarke's talk tomorrow afternoon at five o'clock when the music faculty head inaugurates a new series of music analyses in Conservatorium Hall. Dean Clarke, who is the conductor of the Montreal Orchestra, is widely known as an interpreter of both composers.

The series, of which tomorrow's talk is the initial feature, is designed to give students of all faculties an introduction to the symphony. During the course of the lectures, use will be made of the new library of recorded music, a gift of the Carnegie Corporation of New York to the university, which is to arrive shortly.

Dean Clarke has indicated that his informal addresses will have particular reference to the programs to be played on the Sunday afternoons to follow. Works to be played will be analysed and illustrated at the piano, and through phonograph recordings.

This week's choice comprises familiar works of the orchestra's repertoire: the tone poem, "Tapiola," by Sibelius, and Brahms' piano concerto in B flat major, in which Harold Bauer, celebrated pianist, appears on Sunday afternoon. An invitation has been extended to all interested students to attend all the meetings.

At tomorrow's meeting plans for the new music room, which will house the Carnegie Collection, will be discussed. This room, which will be opened early in November, will be at the disposal of the entire student body.

STUDENT BODY WILL CAMPAIGN FOR CHARITIES

Committee Announces Lowered Objective for This Year

OPENS NEXT MONDAY

Registrar Gives Luncheon for Faculty Representatives Today

Montreal's all-year round Santa Claus, otherwise called The Federated Charities, is launching its Annual Campaign, October 31st-November 1st. Coincident with this is The Students Amalgamated Charities' Campaign. Included in which are the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish Charities. The proceeds of one grand champion being divided among them proportionately to the number of students of each faith in College.

Objective Reduced.

Last year McGill collected hardly more than half of its quota of $3,500.00. Even though this quota may have been set at too high a figure, the showing of the Colleges was certainly deplorable.

This year the total has been reduced to $2,850.00 and those in charge feel that with an amount to shoot at, which is not unreasonably high, the campaign will go over the top. However the success depends, no matter how large or small the objective is, solely upon the canvassers themselves.

Committee Members.

The Committee is composed of Chairman, Walter Conrad; Members, Bill Viner, Jim Grasby, Ted Piper.

Faculty representatives are: Reg Torney, Law; Jim Dunphy, Engineering; Stirling Ferguson, Arch.; John Gillick, Medicine; Miss Pettigrew, Graduate Nurses; Miss Schofield, M.S.P.E.; Chas. Gale, Commerce; M. Brown, Library School; H. Douglas, Theology; D. Gordon, Dentistry; Alex Ross, Grad. School; Nev. Wykes, Arts and Science; Miss Patch, R.V.C.

The Faculty representatives will appoint canvassers for each faculty and they will be directly responsible to the Faculty representatives. Returns MUST be tabulated and turned in each day. A definite place will be fixed in each Faculty Building where the returns may be brought in. Receipts will be sent out to those wishing them after the campaign is over. More news and information about the campaign will appear in the Daily from time to time.

Registrar Gives Luncheon

The Registrar, Mr. T. W. Matthews has very kindly invited the Committee and all the Faculty Representatives to lunch today at 1 p.m. in the Faculty Club on MacLachlan street. There, name lists will be handed out and final plans drawn up.

Debating Union Calls For Final Nominations

Nominations are being called for to fill the office of President of the Debating Union Society. This position is open due to the resignation of Morton Godine, who was elected last March. The President of the Debating Union Society must be an undergraduate and Godine is now doing graduate work in Economics and Political Science.

Ten signatures of members of the Students' Society are required for each nomination. All nominations must be handed in to G. H. Fletcher at the Union today.

The election will be held at a general meeting on Friday, November 4. All members of the Students' Society are eligible to vote.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB.

There will be a meeting of the Cosmopolitan Masquerade committee this evening at 6 o'clock in Strathcona Hall.

French Without Tears.

There will be a rehearsal of act one in the R.V.C. Reading Room this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SOPHS GO INFORMAL WHILE JONES SWINGS

Continuing the policy inaugurated last year of sponsoring inexpensive and informal dances, the executive of the Sophomore Class have announced that the first of this year's Soph Hops will be held Saturday, October 29, in the Union Ballroom at 8 o'clock. Music will be supplied by Harrison Jones and his eight swingsters.

Although this dance is being sponsored by the Sophomore Class, it is intended to provide entertainment for students of all years and faculties in as informal a way as possible. Stressing the ultra-informality of this hop the executive wishes to point out that students may dress as informally as they desire. Reports from last year's hops indicate that Joe College and Betty Co-ed will go collegiate in both manner and dress. Dancing will commence at 8 p.m. and continue until midnight. Tickets are now on sale and may be obtained at the Tuck Shop in the Union or at Bill Gentleman's office at a price of 50c per couple.

ACTIVITIES OF SPC WILL BE REVIEWED

Speaker Is Adviser for Canadian Civil Liberties Union

On Friday afternoon at 5 the Social Problems Club will meet in the Union Music Room. The guest speaker will be the legal adviser for the Committee of the Canadian Civil Liberties Union. The topic will be a complete survey of the activities of the Social Problems Club since last March. Officers for the season will be elected and arrangements for the year's campaign will be planned. The club is hoping to increase the comprehensive activities of the past year; so that a busy season is sure to be forthcoming.

MOCK PARLIAMENT AT MACDONALD

Macdonald College. — Sponsored by the Literary and Debating Society, a Mock Parliament will be held in the Assembly Hall at 7.00 p.m. tonight. The subject will be, "Resolved, that this House move a vote of confidence in Chamberlain's present peace policy." The government, led by T. N. Beaupre as Prime Minister, and supported by F. Gold, will bring in the motion. Dave Miller, as leader of the negative, will be supported by J. Knighton. The procedure is to be constructively criticized by J. W. McNaughton and Minoque of the McGill Debating Union.

Beatrice Lillie contributes this list of resolutions ad nauseam... Get over on the alkaline side Keep Kool Get a lift Refuse substitutes Start the day right Look for the date on the can Taste the difference Lose that fat Be kind to my throat See my dentist twice a year Get rid of that tired feeling Ask the man who owns one Guard the danger line See my grocer tomorrow TUNE IN AGAIN NEXT WEEK, SAME TIME, SAME STATION.

NAZIS EUROPE THREAT, HOLDS COMMENTATOR

Wilson Woodside Calls Germany 'Morally Rotten'

DICTATORS STRONG

Expert Was in Reich During Hitler's Social Revolution

By LLOYD HAINES. (C.U.P. Correspondent.)

Toronto, October 26. — (C.U.P.)—That the Nazi Fascists are gangsters, the embodiment of the very lowest elements in human nature, was the opinion expressed by Mr. Wilson Woodside, well-known Canadian commentator on international affairs, in an interview with the Canadian University Press yesterday.

Society has played into the hands of ruthless, unprincipled forces whose policy is to create disorder, disseminate evil, disorganize and confuse social equilibrium and then smash through with a mailed fist.

The democrats have jeopardized their very existence with their conviction in the utter futility of war. This weakness has given the dictatorships their crushing advantage. "If Britain surrenders one more position she is lost," claims Mr. Woodside.

He points out the whole cause of liberty and Christian ethics in the world today as depending on this one question: "Will the democracies see their peril in time to grapple with it?" Their vitality has been undermined by their greater ease and security. The fight has largely gone out of them. "They need to wake up to the fact that freedom is worth fighting for," he says.

Germany Dominates Europe.

The Nyan Conference is, in Mr. Woodside's opinion, the only positive action taken by Britain in several years. How clear it all was! A solid front against the trouble-makers, and the grievance disappeared as if by magic.

The situation now is infinitely more dangerous than it was a very few years ago. Italy was so weak that she would have wilted at a frown from London. Now she dominates the Mediterranean. "She shouldn't," asserts Mr. Woodside. "Italy is a weak country."

The Anglo-German Naval Pact gave Germany the chance she was looking for. It instilled Britain with a sufficient sense of security to allow the Fatherland a head-start in armament. Now Germany dominates Central Europe. "And her next step will be in the Ukraine," is Mr. Woodside's prophecy.

New League Needed.

Now, if ever, democracy needs a champion, a leader to rouse it from its lethargy and fire it with enthusiasm. Germany still fears Great Britain, by whose might she once was crushed. She shudders at the thought of the United States with her infinite resources. "Germany's might is much over-rated," says Mr. Woodside, "but Prussia is a practical war-maker, a Sparta. She is not a country with an army, but an army with a country."

An international police force, a Vigilant Society of free nations, possibly the League of Nations revived under a new name, to check these Fascist forces of disintegration all over the world, is what, in Mr. Woodside's opinion, must save (Continued on Page Four)

Meet the World

ALL the world is united by ties of modern communications and the interplay of countless economic and cultural impulses, at a period when, as never before, international relations cut a deep ditch across the pathway to human progress. Recent events bring us face to face with the realities of the situation. We are called upon, each and every one of us, to probe what share will be ours in the effort for peace and the drift to war.

As the spotlight rivets attention successively on Africa, Spain, China, Austria, Czechoslovakia, or Palestine, few can answer the challenge to the understanding with any adequate information about, or understanding of, the issues involved. For that reason, a welcome must be extended to a promising "freshman" amongst campus organizations—the International Relations Club. Its first meeting this evening, open to the student body, will hear an address by the Czechoslovak consul, and will attend problems of constitution and future plans.

Affiliated, through the Carnegie Endowment, with 827 similar organizations in many lands, the International Relations Club must necessarily emphasize an officially impartial approach in allowing free discussion, and difference of opinion, on any matters considered.

In forthcoming inter-university conferences, the new chapter should make some definite contribution to the analysis of Canada's role in the international drama. In wishing good fortune to the McGill unit, the hope is expressed that mere exchange of view will stimulate, and be supplemented by, deep thought and study on the vital, fascinating problems of international relations.

Boys Will Be Boys

From The New York Times.

JUST one less than half of this year's entering class at Princeton have voted that Adolf Hitler is the "greatest living person." Prime Minister Chamberlain won the election by getting all the other votes. It is not stated whether or not Mr. Chamberlain will send an army of occupation to take over the campus. In the contest for "greatest living American" President Roosevelt won over Chief Justice Hughes. Finally, three-fourths of the class admitted that red-headed girls scared them.

Some of these attitudes will change during the next four years. The Princeton senior of 1942 may have different notions of greatness. He may marry a red-headed girl—or be married by one, if she lives up to her reputation. The pleasant thing about attitudes maintained by young men and women of the age of college freshmen is that they can and do change. They can change because they are floating around like clouds in the Summer sky—an intellectual sky in which the actual experience of the hard world is as yet a blemish no bigger than a man's hand.

It is the adults with fixed ideas that we have to worry about. The Princeton freshmen are nice boys and nearly all of them will get over what ails them. But what are we to do with adults who reach middle age firmly convinced that red-headed women are a menace to this Republic? These, and others who hold similarly irrational beliefs, are our real educational problem.

The Bookshelf

THE WAY TO THE PRESENT: a Personal Record, by John Van Druten, London, Michael Joseph Ltd., 1938. 282 pages.

It is usually in their declining years, when the passage of time has shed a mellow glow over their youth, that men grow reminiscent, and look back on life as it was in their prime. But here we find Mr. Van Druten, still in his thirties, retracing the way by which he came to his present position as the author of many successful plays of the sophisticated comedy type. One of these, "London Wall," was a Player's Club production of not so many years ago.

In the present volume, the author has striven to give an absolutely fair and uncoloured picture of his childhood, adolescence, and early years of his young manhood. So well does he succeed that his story is almost lost in its detachment, and self-conscious in its restraint.

The life of which he tells is commonplace enough. There is nothing spectacular or particularly out of the ordinary in it. As the second son of an upper middle class family in London in the early part of this century, he experienced childhood's usual joys and sorrows, struggled not too painfully through the common trials of adolescence, spent five years in a law office, and emerged at the age of twenty-two as a professor of law at the University College of Wales.

It is not, however, Van Druten, the individual, but Van Druten, the playwright, with whom he is mainly concerned. The growth of his dramatic powers and interests is traced from the days when it was his greatest delight to pace the garden or the hall, battling a tennis ball with the handle of a walking stick, while telling stories aloud to himself, to the time when, through his devotion to the theatre and a widening range of literary friendships, he finally achieved a play important enough to be banned in England, and to be widely acclaimed in America.

Although it is to the latter period that he devotes the most attention, telling in some detail of his successive enthusiasms for literature, art, opera, the ballet, and over and above all, the stage, it is perhaps the portion dealing with his childhood that has for the general reader the most appeal. His account of his childish actions and reactions is so full of naive absurdities, and at the same time so true to the pattern of childishness everywhere, that it cannot but bring back pleasurable recollections.

1914 brings the evil of war as it appeared to the boy in his early teens, not as active horror, but as a remote something, taking all the joy from life and putting an interminable tawdry staidness over everything. This lasted even through Armistice day itself, when, arriving home late from work, he felt that "it had been a hateful day, in which he had missed everything, even, queerly, the sense that the war was over."

All this is deftly told, and admirers of Van Druten particularly will enjoy recognizing the background of the life which he has woven into so many of his plays. In "Young Woodley," for example, he has used that of his school days, in "London Wall" that of his life in the law office, and in "After All," his intense concern with the relationships between parents and children. However, the material of his autobiography is presented in a bare, undramatized version, interesting as the record of a life, exceptional only in being dominated by an unswerving ambition which early came to fulfillment.

R. F. D. by Charles Allen Smart; N.Y., W. W. Norton and Co., 1938; 314 pages. Price $2.50.

Have you ever toyed with the idea of taking up farming? If so then you have doubtless tried to estimate your chances of making the venture pay. Here is a book which tells, not how to be a successful farmer from a financial point of view, but how to get the utmost personal satisfaction out of such a mode of life. Charles Smart, unlike many people of his time, was not forced into farming by the depression, but as a means of escape for "a typical urban intellectual and malcontent of the twenties." The farm was left to him by an obliging relative, and although he and his wife knew no more about farming than the average city dweller, yet they cherished the belief that anything could be learned in time. If it turns out that Mr. Smart is successful as a farmer, and that seems to be the case, he is quite modest about the whole business and says, "I am now merely doing those things that millions of other Americans are doing without fuss and feathers and without writing books about themselves."

For the reader who is satisfied only by a complex plot which builds up a climax, the book will hold little interest, since there is no attempt at plot construction. On the other hand this same person, after having read the beautiful and clear-cut word pictures of the Smart farm, which occur in the first few pages, may be induced to explore a little further. And in doing so he will be fascinated by a sound and refreshing philosophy of life, which pops up time after time. He cannot fail to catch the writer's own excitement, when the latter plunging his arms into a tubful of cool clean grass seed, envisions the thousands of rolling acres of grass which will come from those hard little grains. He will share in the thrill brought about by the arrival of the first lamb; by the battle with nature fought and won, and by the rare trip to town after weeks of incessant toil.

R. F. D. is full of the practical side of farming such as: "how to undress a sheep"; how to prevent an ewe from disowning her lamb; how to keep an old truck loaded with grain and fodder moving on impassable roads; and how to fell a tree safely. Perhaps the layman's sensibilities may be shocked by the detail with which Mr. Smart explains the breeding of cows and sheep, and the technique of bringing their young into the world. However, it cannot be said that such information is out of place in a book of this type—and then as Mr. Smart says, he is only presenting a few clinical notes easily skipped.

If from the foregoing the reader has concluded that R. F. D. is written only for the would-be-farmer, a few more words are necessary to dispel that illusion. Mr. Smart is not so engrossed in the material side of the farming business that he misses the essentials of life, such is not his nature. He displays a passionate interest in the thoughts and actions of his fellow farmers, and the whole narrative is pervaded with his delightful sense of humour. He is not not above relating little incidents such as the one about the cats which line up beside him at milking time, in expectation of the fresh milk to be squirted into their mouths. In a few places the reading is not as straightforward as might be desired, but on the whole the flow of words is entirely effortless. The style itself is invigorating and intimate, exhibiting a rare skill in the use of words. The reader will find that the book is rich in moving and entertaining incidents, and cannot help but be carried along by the obvious joy and enthusiasm with which Mr. Smart treats his subject.

The Tavern Chair

Glancing over the Daily assignment book, we noticed that a Date Bureau is being organized in R.V.C.

Tentative plans, we are given to understand, limit the female applicants to residents of R.V.C., so that male applicants will know in advance how much transportation expenses will entail.

We insist that those in charge of the bureau be persons of impeccable and undoubted integrity—preferably ourselves. We fear, however, from the arrangements that are now being made, that these individuals will not come up to our standard of probity. They will, beyond doubt, reserve all the best dates unto themselves.

Applicants will, of course, have to fill in a form, which will ask for all information concerning the applicant—with the possible exception of the parents' dates of birth. We are led to believe that there will also be a snag in the form of a suggestion to share the expense of the evening's entertainment.

To add insult to injury, the prospective managers of the hypothetical Date Bureau (we are told) deem it necessary to have each application accompanied by a bona-fide photograph of the sender. Be she ever so homely . . . there's no place like R.V.C!

To eliminate Walt Whitman's plebs "pocketless of a dime"—chisellers to you—the small fee of ten cents, the tenth part of a dollar, must also accompany the said application. This is to cover "carrying charges."

At this juncture, we are reminded of a similar attempt to set up a Date Bureau on the McGill campus some years ago. This plan at that time was much broader in scope—it was intended to embrace the entire female population of McGill. Obviously, so ambitious a venture is not the most feasible thing in the world, especially if that world is bounded by the Medical Building at one end and the Campus Apartments at the other. Thus it came to pass that the all-inclusive aims of those would-be Cupids were destined to meet with a certain degree of competition. In fact, records show that for every date consummated by the Date Bureau, the ratio in the Campus Apartments was at least fivefold!

Strange to relate, however, the acknowledged belles and sirens of the campus were among the first to volunteer their services in the cause of the Lonely-Boys-From-Back-Home . . . and they got dates! Two of them, in fact, went so far as to pay their own way to the Junior Prom! All of which goes to show that there are some nice boys on the campus, after all—a fact which should eliminate all possible objections from the R.V.C. side of the fence.

The office of the old Date Bureau was situated in a cubbyhole at the end of the hall in the Union Basement. There impressive quarters were particularly suited to the purpose, being served by such indispensable appurtenances as a private telephone wire, a flat-topped desk, a roll-top cabinet (which didn't roll), a hat-rack, a couch . . . and opaque window-blinds! (Libelous scandal!)

Since the demise of that yearling Date Bureau, however, its quarters have been assigned by the sheriff of the Union House Committee to a group of individuals whose function is manifested but once a year—the Annual. This eviction creates a serious problem in the face of the new venture. Where are the dates and dates to meet? Suggestions so far have brought forward apparently antagonistic trysting-places as the Daily Office, the drawing-room at R.V.C., the Players' Clubroom, the Quadrangle at Douglas Hall, and the Anatomy Lab in the Medical Building. To settle the rivalry among these contenders—for competition is already keen—this column is offering its services to conduct a survey of student opinion on this most vital of all campus questions. All communications should be addressed to The Tavern-Chair-Sitter, care of the "Daily's" private Pig and Whistle, in the Union Basement.

Let student apathy be laid aside! Let joy be unconfined! After all, what is co-education for? It is essential that this important matter be settled as soon as possible. Send in your applications and suggestions NOW!!

An issue familiar to Alberta students and faculty is reported from Tasmania in the University of Witwatersrand's "Wu's Views": "An interesting talk on 'Professors' Politics' was given, in which it was stated that by the laws of the University of Tasmania no professor or lecturer may sit in parliament, a rule which has discouraged staff members to the extent that none of them even enter into politics in the mildest way. Other Australian Universities are equally strong on this point. The paper pleads for more liberal laws and more trust in the discretion of the professional staff."

And, no doubt, the university authorities in Tasmania pay frequent lip service to the need for trained minds in politics.

MUSIC

Les Concerts Symphoniques.

Jean Dansereau, who over twenty years ago won the Prix d'Europe and left Montreal to study in Paris, will return to Montreal for the first time since his departure to play Beethoven's Third Piano Concerto with the orchestra of Les Concerts Symphoniques under Wilfrid Pelletier tomorrow evening at Plateau Hall. Mr. Dansereau, who has played with many of the leading orchestras of Europe, began his studies here with Mr. Hungerford. As Hector Dansereau he was an outstanding student at the Conservatorium, and assumed the name Jean after he had met and established an intimacy with Jean de Rezke, a relationship which had a profound influence on his career.

Mr. Pelletier has chosen a fine program with which to begin his season. Besides the Beethoven Concerto, there will be Schubert's Fourth Symphony (The Tragic, in C minor) and Ravel's "La Mer." Following the custom of several years, this first program will include the work which was awarded the Jean Lallemand Prize last spring, the work being a set of variations by the young Quebec composer, Graham George.

Rebuttal From Douglas Hall.

To the Editor of the McGill Daily: Sir,—In recent editions of our college paper I have seen articles and letters criticizing the service and meals at Douglas Hall. Of course one cannot expect to have 123 students living together without some complaints, but when these complaints reach the 'stage' where they are unreasonable and selfish, they ought to be answered.

Douglas Hall provides meals of good quality and with lots of variation. Very seldom do we get any dish more than once a week. The food is well cooked and served in an appetizing way.

Then there is the matter of quantity of food. In my opinion, breakfast, lunch and dinner each give us enough to satisfy the ordinary stomach. For those with extra large bodies there is a second helping of almost anything but meat and dessert. One can have lots of soup, vegetables, bread, milk, toast and cereals. There is no reason why residents should ask for much more unless they desire to 'make hogs of themselves.'

On the matter of service I wish to say that the head waitress and her competent staff excel themselves in trying to serve the students in a pleasing way. The same goes for the porters and maids.

Yours very sincerely,
SATISFIED STUDENT.

THIS ARDENT FAN SNATCHED A TRAIN TO SEE THE GAME

Morgantown—On to Waynesburg! So chanted loyal Mountaineer fans on November 29, 1938 as the Gold and Blue team travelled to Waynesburg to meet the Washington and Jefferson Presidents in the final game of the season.

Undoubtedly many fans wanted to make the trip, but were unable to find the necessary transportation. Not so with an 18-year-old Pennsylvania boy who lived just across the state line. He wanted to go and so he did.

Into the cab of the one and only engine of the Morgantown and Blacksville railroad climbed the ambitious fan. The engine was headed towards Waynesburg, there were two rails going in that direction and he had the spirit. Nothing else mattered.

After travelling for about a mile the amateur engineer came to a curve, not at the proverbial 90 miles an hour but sufficiently fast to wreck the engine.

When the authorities found him, he was standing by the wrecked engine, looking dazedly at the damage he had caused.

"We just had a little wreck," he said.

MAC MEDITATIONS

By CLANMAC

They're off—but no dust! Drenched by the pouring rain which dampened the ardent desires of the most hardy aspirants, the sports day came to a soggy close. The Seniors spent a very quiet evening trying to dry themselves out at the Maples, but we wonder why they were all made honorary members of the Cedar Cabin Club.

What is Tudor Hall, where is it, and how long it is? These questions have been undoubtedly successfully answered to satisfaction of every Mac student in the Assembly Hall on Thursday night. Why were they late? Why was Mischa fired? Why, Daddy? We hope he was able to get his shirt back. The programme was well worth waiting for, being delightful in its variety of entertainment.

A hustle and bustle heralds the approach of the class plays. Morose managers, dictatorial directors, temperamental talent, and dubious judges are in much evidence. We hope this is a good sign, we hope!

The Grads came and the Grads went after a very enjoyable weekend in spite of the fact that they were badly beaten in the rugby game in the afternoon. In case you didn't know, the score was 1-0. The Hop, however, proved a huge success in the evening.

Don't forget next Friday night. Why? It's just one of those times when you can dress as you please, but don't let your imagination run riot or the results might be disastrous; moderation in everything at all times. But come one, come all, because there is going to be a good time to be had.

An unexpected visit made on Sunday by the Headmaster of Christ's Hospital, Mr. Flecker, and the C.P.R. representative in London, England, Mr. Creswell. Mr. Flecker is on a lecture tour of the United States, but took advantage of a fleeting opportunity to meet some "Old Blues" here at Mac who had been brought over under the C.P.R. scheme.

COSMETICS SUITABLE FOR USE IN DARKNESS DEMONSTRATED BY PHYSICS DEPARTMENT

Morgantown.—Skeletons danced in the dark, pictures appeared where none were before and postcards glowed in the dark yesterday afternoon when two office secretaries and a Daily Athenaeum reporter watched officials of the department of physics testing ultraviolet ray equipment just received from a manufacturer.

Seemed Like Magic.

Cloth, hand lotion and postcards were exposed to the ray and then held in the dark. All shone brightly and appeared as if magic had hinged them in space.

Men No Longer In Dark.

Co-eds would find it easy to scare their escorts in the dark should they use the cold cream which Dr. R. C. Colwell had on his hands. After exposure to the ray, his hands shone in the dark with a green glow, and cast enough light to show the features of his face. Some

Red Mermen Swamped In Double Fixture At Y. Pool Last Night

Cameron Scores Only Goal As Juniors Take 13-1 Beating — Findlay Stars in Nets When Seniors Defeated 15-3

Both of McGill Water Polo teams met defeat at the Y.M.H.A. tank last night, faltering under more experienced teams.

The Juniors lost by the score of 13-1. M. Greenberg and S. Mirotchnich starred for the Y.M.H.A. poloists in their attack on the McGill team. Mirotchnich led in the scoring by netting eight goals for the Y.M.H.A. team, while Greenberg accounted for the remaining five points. Cameron netted the only counter for the McGill squad.

Barza also played well for the seniors. The Y.M.H.A. juniors showed great co-ordination in their victory, due to three years of experience as a team. The McGill team on the other hand have had to use many new players this year.

The McGill senior squad lost 15-3 to the Y. team. The defeat, however, was not so bad in that the Y.M.H.A. senior poloists have been six times Dominion champions. Tucker starred for the senior squad with five goals, while Tafer, Feinholz and Sohmer netted the remaining tallies for the Y. Bourne, Leonard and Lindsay scored for McGill. Shapiro and Eden showed well at defence while Findlay played well in the McGill nets and saved the visitors from a worse defeat.

The lineup:
McGill: Findlay, goal; Silverman, Shapiro, back; Caplan, Isseman, back; Olshitzer, Bourne, forward; Tucker, Lindsay, forward; Feinholz, Shragovitch, half; Sohmer, Leonard, centre; Talfer, Eden, alternate; Pesner, alternate; Goldstein.

Y.M.H.A.: Super, goal; Schwartz, Barber, back; Hofman, LaForest, back; Climan, Barza, half; Abramson, Cameron, centre; Abramson, Kennedy, forward; Greenberg, Rehder, forward; Mirotchnich, Richmond, sub; Wellkovitch, Hay, sub; Herscovitch.

Water Polo.
Thursday and Friday evenings at 5.30 in the K. of C. Tank on Mountain street there will be a general practice for all water polo players.

GRIDDERS FACE TOUGH TUSSLES

Frosh to Meet Loyola in Crucial Tilt

McGill Seconds Defend Unbeaten Record Against St. Lambert on Saturday

So far this year the McGill coaching staff in football have made a clean sweep. The record of the Seniors, led by Coach Doug Kerr needs no mention here. Coach Wally Markham has led the Frosh over most of the road leading to a defence of last year's Freshman team's title without yet meeting with defeat. The Seconds are also undefeated and on the royal road to title honors in their league. But stiff tests await these teams before they can hang up their cleats and claim any Cups.

The Frosh meet up with their destiny on Saturday. McGill will pay a visit to Loyola to lock horns in a battle which should decide the championship of the Intermediate Intercollegiate Rugby League. Both teams are undefeated and boast impressive records for the season. In their last clash no decision was reached as the two teams battled to a 11-11 tie. Saturday's game should be worth while taking in. Any football fans at McGill who are not going to Kingston should be on hand and give the Frosh the support they deserve and need in their attempt to win glory for McGill.

Hard Practice
Last night Coach Fred Wigle took the Frosh in hand and gave them a lengthy blocking drill in an attempt to bolster the line. Cuddington was out at practice and will see action on Saturday after having missed all games this season due to an injury sustained in pre-season scrimmaging. His return will be timely as Lloyd-Smith will miss action due to an injury which he got in Tuesday's game against MacDonald. The team will have a full-dress scrimmage tonight.

The Seconds tackle St. Lambert out across the river this Saturday and will be fighting to retain their league lead. Coach Buster Fletcher has a team that looks like championship calibre but there is still heavy opposition from St. Lambert and Rockland before the long-sought city title can be brought to McGill.

Fresh from their scoring splurge against St. Dominic in which the Seconds chalked up a dozen touchdowns the Redmen faced sterner opposition last night when they scrimmaged against Coach Doug Kerr's hearties. But all went well and the team is ready for Saturday's game. Norm Cuke has been flashing brilliant form in the backfield. Guy Laberge is standing out with his stellar play on the wing-line.

Swimming.
Swimming instruction is held at the K. of C. tank on Tuesdays at 5.30-6.30 p.m. A general practice hour is offered at the same time on Thursdays. All those who have not been physically examined are urged to do so as soon as possible.

R.V.C. Badminton.
On Thursday evening, October 27, there will be a Freshie Round Robin played at R.V.C. All first year girls interested in Badminton are especially asked to come, and all others who can come are invited.

SWORDPLAY

By Doug and Jack

The Fencing Club seems to be the one bright star in the B.W.F. set-up; these two sister organizations are bawling the annual dearth of participants while fencing is drawing more prospects than ever. Nearly all the old-timers are back and we are encouraged to see about fifteen new men lined up for instruction with the Maitre. They have all paid their $2.25 for foils and thus show their intentions to continue. The strange part of it is that fencing has in the past received little or no publicity. There are no elaborate writeups and no profuse praises. But these boys, once bitten by the fencing bug, become immune to such neglect. The steel is in their souls and they carry on as long as they can wield a blade.

From the point of view of the fencers, Saturday's game was a rather hectic affair, to say the least. White pants, Red coats, blue capes, kilts, bagpipes, brass bands and last, but not least, fencers. It is doubtful if Molson field has ever had such a varied and colourful half-time. And there, down among the swaying skirts and skirling pipes, four of Montreal's best swordsmen battled against overwhelming odds.

There was a double-cross between the announcer in the press box and the men on the field and so that the announcement stated they were using foils when they were actually performing with the epees. In spite of this unfavourable faux pas, the fencing continued, with only slight interruptions by French horns, etc., and ended with the feature bout. McGill's men put up a good show, but this fencing game is hard to appreciate unless you have tried it out. Why not drop in for a closer look some time soon.

We attended the annual meeting of the Province of Quebec Fencing Association on Tuesday night at Central Y. Delegates from most of the local clubs were present with ideas, arguments and objections which kept the ball rolling until well into the night. The most important question was, unfortunately, not decided, whether the P.Q.F.A. would break away from the A.A.U. of C. (Quebec Branch). It was forcefully pointed out by George Tully that in 1936 the Olympic team members received only six dollars towards their passage and then were billed eight dollars for blazers. Dues amounting roughly to thirty dollars are owed by the fencing organization and the question asked repeatedly was, "If we pay up what are we going to get out of it except the right to pay sanction fees whenever we run a tournament?" We must confess we don't know and that most of the arguments left us bewildered. It appears that in order to send fencers to the next Olympics the P.Q.F.A. must be affiliated with some amateur organization. An attempt has been made to induce the three other provincial associations to become outlaws with the Quebec section. There may be some possibility of affiliating directly with the National A.A.U. or with the Federation National d'Esclime.

A new executive composed of president, Larry Cossit; vice-president, Alf Horn; secretary-treasurer, Harry Yale; assistant, Linda Smith. Doug Rowe, McGill manager, will represent us on the committee. The elections were unanimous and we personally place every confidence in these men. The retiring George Tully and Charlie Otis are to be congratulated on their labours in the cause. It's almost a full-time job to handle an organization such as this. Chatting with the various delegates we got the impression that fencing was looking up all over town.

RED RUGGER SQUAD SET FOR SATURDAY

Meets Varsity for College Championship—McGill Un-defeated This Year

Fielding its strongest team in recent years the McGill English rugby squad will make a strong attempt to wrest the intercollegiate rugby championship from Varsity this Saturday when the two teams clash at Molson Stadium at 12.30 p.m.

Leaders of the Montreal English Rugby League, and current favorites to cop the title, the Redmen went through a stirring practice at the Stadium Tuesday night when they defeated the Bank of Montreal team in probably the best game of the season.

Varsity as usual will come well fortified with Old Country players who have formed the background of their team in recent years. Last year it was the stirring play of Christenson that provided the margin of a 5-3 victory on a muddy gridiron in Toronto.

This year's edition of the McGill team is formed around a number of last year's stalwarts and a few valuable newcomers. Withrow, backfield star, will be lost for the Varsity game, but will be back for the Montreal contests.

The team is holding practices every afternoon on Lower Campus at 4.30 p.m. under the tutorage of Drs. Macintosh and O'Brien.

George Tully and Charlie Otis have been working on a Year Book of Fencing and expect to have it printed shortly. The leading article comes from the facile pen of Professor Nobbs of McGill, one of the greats of the game.

HOPEFUL PUCKSTERS GET STIFF WORKOUT

McGill's Senior Hockey hopes, 36 of them, wheeled up and down the Forum ice yesterday at noon and at the end of an hour's strenuous play Coach Farquharson cut the squad to 22 men. The aspiring Redmen were in good condition, thanks to Bert Light's arduous pre-season training sessions and they hit and held a fast pace despite badly cut-up ice.

All except three of last year's team were out, together with several promising looking new men. The three who will be lost to the team through graduation are Paul Pldcock, Gord Crutchfield and last year's captain and star goalkeeper, Dave Tennant.

Assisted by Dr. C. Letourneau who will coach the Intermediate team this year, Coach Farquharson put his charges through a stiff practice game during which passing attacks were stressed. Lines were changed, frequently but one, composed of Craig, McConnell and Perowne, showed up well. Porteous, a new prospect from Loyola, also looked good.

All players are requested to read the hockey notice in the sports column. For those who do not make the Senior team, Intermediate practices will soon be arranged.

INTERFACULTY SPORTS

THRILLING TIE.
The Engineers' ultra football squad and the fighting Classicists of the Arts Building battled to a 5-5 draw in yesterday's touch rugby fixture. The heaviest fighting took place along the line and a general razzle-dazzle type of play featured the backfield contribution.

A tremendous forward pass thrown by Smith and caught by Purdie scored a touchdown for the Artsmen in the first half. The Plumbers opened strongly but the opposition fought back and the above-mentioned colossal pass climaxed the Arts' drive. Meanwhile darkness had fallen. With five minutes left to play an Engineer threw a pass into the darkness beyond. There the ball lit in the arms of a shadowy figure who galloped over the Arts' touch line with the ball.

It is reported that several Artsmen are still running around the campus, waiting for the game to end.

TODAY'S GAME.
In today's Touch Rugby game Dentistry join battle with Commerce at 4.30 on the Lower Campus. The mighty Molar Maulers will be playing their first game of the year so little is known as to the exact strength of the team. The Commerce record to date is one game scheduled defaulted, but it is rumoured that the "Business Leaders of Tomorrow" will actually field a team this time. Arts and Engineers each had enough men out for two teams in yesterday's game, so surely other faculties can round up 12 men willing to "Touch" or be "Touched" for their faculty.

The remainder of the schedule is as follows:
Thursday, Oct. 27.—Dent. vs. Comm. at 4.30 p.m.
Friday, Oct. 28.—Med. vs. Eng. at 4.30 p.m.
Monday, Nov. 1.—Comm. vs. Eng. at 4.30 p.m.

Excuse me, sir, if I may...?
Yes, young man?
The total population of Peoria, sir, is 82,354. Of this number, 7,906 are infants and 9,205 are elderly people with false teeth, thus making a total of 17,111 who may be considered bad gum drop risks. However, there is no reason why the remainder of the population may not be considered good gum-drop material and if your research experiments on the suction gum drop are realized, there is no reason why Peoria may not become an important sales outlet.

Astounding, young man! How do you know all that?
It's nothing, sir. The facts are available to anybody, in the Public Library. Fortunately, my neighborhood branch is open until 10.30, so that I can spend at least 15 minutes in the reading room every night, after work.

I don't mind telling you, young man, I'm very much impressed with your ability... By George, I nearly forgot that merger matter. Must go downtown immediately. You'll come with me of course, young man. Want to talk to you... Jilson, order my car around.

Excuse me, sir, if I may...?
Yes, my boy?

I believe you will find, sir, that the southbound traffic is extremely bad at this time of day. If time is of the essence, sir, may I suggest that you allow me to give you a lift on my handlebars. You will save an estimated average of four seconds a city block that way, sir. Astonishing! Jilson, cancel the car... Look here, young man, let's put our cards on the table. I want you to come here and work for me. There's a great future here for a young man of your capabilities.

Beg pardon, sir, but although I am deeply appreciative of your fine offer, I have had many like it and have turned them all down.

Confound it boy, why?
Beg pardon, sir. I make such valuable contacts in the course of my work.

NAZIS EUROPE THREAT HOLDS COMMENTATOR

the cause of freedom, if it is to be saved at all.

Britain Averts War.

For Britain, a war postponed may be a war averted. She holds to her age-old policy of detachment from the vortex of Europe. She sees even now a faint hope that Hitler may destroy himself as Napoleon did, on Russia. "What Lindbergh said about the Russian air-fleet is only too true," affirms Mr. Woodside. "Russia is terribly disorganized. But she will fight. Anyone will fight an aggressor." This, coming from a man who carried a couple of hundred undeveloped photographs out of Russia in his back pocket, cannot be otherwise than authentic.

Mr. Woodside shared the narrow quarters of a storm trooper during the Nazi revolution, moved about freely in Berlin during Hitler's election campaign and broke unexpectedly into world news when he sampled true German hospitality for refusing the Nazi salute. On this occasion he took leave of a certain Munich hotel much in the manner of "the daring young man," his baggage flying behind him.

He freely admits the peril of his trade. "What they can do to you in a modern dictatorship is almost unbelievable," he says. Yet, dauntless, crusading free-lance that he is, he returns again and again to the scenes of action, never faltering from his high ideals, telling the whole truth, where Truth is thought lightly of and Liberty is incredible.

date bureau," from another. Some were insulted and one fiery co-ed did the equivalent of stamping her foot.

But the final verdict from those in the know was "R.V.C. already is a date bureau with anyone from the greenest freshie to the telephone operator acting as mediator."
